ABOUT

It all began while free styling in the locker room with his football teammates at Dartmouth College. Everyone took turns rapping, but his verses stood out. It was always 'Mōbs' turn'.

As a college quarterback, music took a back seat – until an injury that his head coach said it was the worst he'd seen in 40 years of coaching.

The football team was his family-away-from-home. His rhymes remained the team's secret weapon.

When Darryl focused on music, he kept his rhymes positive and respectful.
